

John C. Babione

317-237-3862
jbabione@locke.com

John Babione is an associate, concentrating his practice in complex multiparty toxic exposure litigation involving defense of claims related to asbestos and silica. John's experience includes both civil and class action litigation, including the lawsuits that arose from the prescription drugs Vioxx and Fen-Phen.

Client Industries:

Product manufacturers, construction contractors, and premises owners

Professional Associations:

- Defense Research Institute
- Indianapolis Bar Association
- Indiana State Bar Association

Publications:

- "Mission Accomplished? Fifty-Four Years of Suffering for the People of the Marshall Islands and the Latest Round of Endless Reconciliation," Indiana International & Comparative Law Review, 2000

Assistant:

Teena Upp, 317-237-3266
tupp@locke.com

Additional Experience:

- Heritage Environmental Services, Compliance Administrator of Indianapolis hazardous waste treatment facility

Community Involvement:

- Heartland Pro Bono Council, pro bono attorney, 2003-2005
- Indianapolis Bar Association, Ask a Lawyer volunteer, 2006-2007

Education:

- Indiana University, B.S. in Environmental Science, 1995
- Indiana University School of Law, J.D., 2001
 - Indiana International & Comparative Law Review, Member
 - Indiana Department of Natural Resources, Law Clerk

Personal:

John enjoys jazz and classic cars.

